

Applying to the National Honor Society

I am deeply honored to apply to the National Honor Society for membership. My professors think that I have all the necessary skills and qualities to become a member of such a respectable organization. Seeing that my professors do believe in me, I realize that I have proved my desire and readiness to help people in different ways and make a significant contribution to the development of the community. I am convinced that I will become a worthy member of this organization since I have superior leadership qualities, strong character and determination to succeed. Moreover, I am goal-oriented and hard-working.

My accomplishments are the best proof of my diligent work and commitment to studies. In order to build an excellent career and the future which I am dreaming of, I have to work a lot. However, I am not afraid of difficulties. I know I will find the ways of reaching my goals. I am confident that being a member of NHS will help me succeed in my objectives. Since my greatest wish is to show a good example to other people, every day, I take essential steps to realizing my plans. During the academic years, I have taken part in different competitions and attended various conferences. What is more, I am interested in programming and take extra courses to master my skills and develop my talent.

Being a sophomore, I began wearing glasses. Unluckily, my peers started bullying me. I was confused and could not find a way out of the situation. My parents knew nothing about it, as I did not want to tell them about it. I lost my interest to studies and sometimes I did not want to live. That terrible situation lasted for a year. Finally, I realized that I did not want to be a victim anymore and started fighting bullying. That moment, I became an absolutely another person. Becoming older, I started explaining children that bullying was a terrible thing so that they fully realized that and did not subject anyone to it. Every year, I with the help of my professors arrange the anti-bullying day informing learners about how to fight such a terrible issue as bullying. I am convinced that our efforts will not be vain.

I go to the swimming pool several days a week. Though I am not going to connect my future with a professional sport, I still do training, as I think that it can improve not only my physical shape but also my mental health. I believe that we become stronger every time we have to fight fatigue, pain, etc. All my awards and diplomas help me realize that I will definitely attain my goals.

Since I have been selected as the most appropriate candidate for NHS, I think that my educational institution is the place where my qualities and skills are valued. I have a great pride in being a representative of my school. I will continue working hard not to disappoint my peers and professors.
